DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Group 2, (Claims 19-44) in the reply filed on 18 April 2005 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claims 19, 21, 26, 28, 29, 31, 32, 34, 39, 41, 42 & 44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Specifically, Regarding Claims 19 & 32, Examiner notes that the term "machine" is indefinite in this context and suggests changing the same to "computer". Regarding Claims 21, 26, 28, 29, 31, 34, 39, 41, 42 & 44, Examiner notes that the term "natural" in relation to language is indefinite and suggests changing the same to "English". For purposes of examination, Examiner will interpret the same to be "English language".
2. Claims 33-35 include language indicating "the processor", wherein there is insufficient antecedent basis for the same. Examiner suggests inserting language inclusive of "a processor" into Independent Claim 32.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2143

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 19 & 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US Patent Pub. US 2001/0027470 A1 to Ulmer.

5. Regarding Claims 19 & 32, Ulmer discloses a method and computer readable medium comprising:

automatically and repeatedly receiving electronic mail messages that include information related to remotely collected data indicative of a performance of a machine, the electronic mail messages complying with a standard electronic mail messaging protocol, (paragraphs #0036-0038, 0040, 0056, 0059, 0063-0073 & 0097), and automatically analyzing the information to determine the performance of the machine, (paragraph #0036).

Thus, all the elements and claim limitation of Claims 19 & 32 are found to be unpatentable over the teachings of Ulmer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 20-23, 26, 28-31, 34, 35, 39 & 41-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over further consideration of the teachings of US Patent Pub. US 2001/0027470 A1 to Ulmer.

8. Regarding Claims 20 & 33, Ulmer is relied upon for those teachings disclosed herein. As noted above, Ulmer discloses the capture and transmission of performance information, (paragraph #0036), via email, (paragraph #0038) to the support-service provider. Ulmer does not specifically indicate the analysis component extracting the information exclusively from the electronic mail messages; however, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention by Applicant to extract information from any remote customer transmission for analysis purposes at the support-service provider's site within a system dedicated to providing remote support services wherein any information transmitted from the remote customer could obviously be relevant and necessary to proper system performance analysis. Therefore, Claims 20 & 33 are found to be unpatentable over considerable consideration of the teachings of Ulmer.

9. Regarding Claims 21, 26, 28-31, 34, 39 & 41-44, Ulmer is relied upon for those teachings disclosed herein. Ulmer further discloses a graphical display, (per pending Claims 30 & 43), (paragraph #0059) and generating a [English language] report based on the analysis, (per pending Claims 21, 26, 34 & 39), (paragraph #0003, 0059, 0097 & 0101), wherein said report would obviously need to be in a maximally universally understood language, (i.e.: English), for comprehension by the greatest amount of individuals. Additionally, the use of language enhancements, (per pending Claims 28, 29, 41 & 42), and hyperlinks, (per pending Claims 31 & 44), in word processing and email programs is well-known in the art as an obvious means of accessing and emphasizing matter within written instruments, wherein the use of bold, italicized, colored, underlined and various font size typeface and links to other web pages/databases is not patentably distinct, (please see McGregor '360 noted herein below). Therefore, Regarding Claims 21, 26, 28-31, 34, 39 & 41-44 are found to be unpatentable over considerable consideration of the teachings of Ulmer.

10. Regarding Claims 22 & 35, Ulmer is relied upon for those teachings disclosed herein. Ulmer further discloses generating an electronic mail message that includes the report and transmitting the electronic mail message over a network, (paragraph #0038). Therefore, Claims 22 & 35 are found to be unpatentable over considerable consideration of the teachings of Ulmer.

11. Claims 23-25, 27, 36-38 & 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the combined teachings of US Patent Pub. US 2001/0027470 A1 to Ulmer and US Patent Pub. US 2002/0173997 A1 to Menard.

12. Regarding Claims 23-25, 27, 36-38 & 40, Ulmer is relied upon for those teachings disclosed herein. Though Ulmer teaches analyzing time ordered data collection to determine the performance of the machine, (Ulmer - paragraph #0036 & 0063-0073), Ulmer does not specifically disclose wherein analyzing the collected data includes comparing at least some of the collected data with a corresponding threshold value to determine whether the performance measurements are within a range of acceptable values. Menard clearly teaches analysis of data based on a threshold comparison, (per pending Claims 23, 25, 36 & 38), (Menard - Abstract, paragraphs #0010-0017 & 0057-0059), and performance reports obviously inclusive of performance-based information, (i.e.: threshold/measurement value) (per pending Claims 24, 25, 27, 37, 38 & 40), (Menard – paragraphs #0013, 0037 & 0057), and wherein analyzing and selecting from the collected data obviously includes determining the number of performance measurements that are within the range of acceptable values, (per pending Claims 25 & 38), (Menard – paragraph #0057).

13. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention by Applicant to incorporate the threshold analysis from Menard into the remote support service system of Ulmer as a new means by which to improve business performance and increase reliability within a geographically distributed system, (Menard – paragraph #0002). Specifically, Examiner notes that both systems gather, transmit, analyze and report remote system performance information wherein various analysis techniques would have been obvious to incorporate therein or combine therewith. Therefore, Claims 23-25, 27, 36-38 & 40 are found to be unpatentable over the combined teachings of Ulmer and Menard.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:
